It’s true — diversity is life, and it’s all around us. As you begin your college experience, you’ll be faced with a diversity of new experiences, new perspectives, new people, and new opportunities for understanding. It’s bound to be an intriguing, exciting, and challenging change.

How are you going to deal with life on campus? It is up to you! Of course, as a FLCC student, you are expected to:

• Abide by the rules of the College.
• Conduct yourself with accepted standards of good citizenship, honesty, and decency, and with proper regarding for the rights of others.
• Obey Federal, State, and local laws as would any good citizen.

At FLCC we encourage you to be fair, to learn, to prevail over challenges, and to make responsible choices.

Change is nothing new, but the point is: If you open your mind to something new, you could be in for a rewarding learning adventure.

Keep an Open Mind: It’s Life

DID YOU KNOW?

- 81.3% of FLCC students who responded to the 2003 National College Health Assessment believe the College is concerned about the prevention of drug and alcohol use, and 76.3% know the College has alcohol and drug policies.
- Most FLCC graduates complete the degree requirements within five semesters or less.
- 72.18% of current FLCC students have grade point averages of B- or higher.

The Student Code of Conduct Policy can be viewed on the Dean of Student Services and Enrollment Management Web page at http://www.flcc.edu/offices/student-services/resources.html#codeofconduct. We hope this information will enhance your ability to have a healthy, safe experience, both in and outside the classroom.

Finger Lakes Community College
4355 Lakeshore Drive
Canandaigua, NY 14424
www.flcc.edu

Produced by the Office of the Dean of Student Services and Enrollment Management (585) 394-3500, ext. 7211

If we were all the same, how boring would that be?
Learning doesn’t just happen in the classroom. As an FLCC student, you are a member of the Student Corporation. We encourage you to be an active member by getting involved in student government, clubs, sports, and other activities. These experiences will leave you with a different view of people, as well as a different view of the world around you. As part of the learning process:

• Familiarize yourself with college rules and regulations and follow them.
• Consider attending services at a variety of churches, synagogues, and temples to learn about different faiths.
• Attend a play, listen to music, or go to a dance performance by artists whose race or ethnicity is different from your own.
• Practice good time management skills and stay on top of your academic assignments.

Challenges are a part of life. While at FLCC, you have the opportunity to challenge yourself:

• Manage your money and pay your bills.
• Own your own actions — you can’t blame anyone else for the way you act.
• Participate in a blood drive, or clean up a local stream. Identify issues that reach across racial, ethnic, and other divisions and forge alliances for tackling them.
• Talk to your roommate about overnight guests, times you go to sleep, study time, telephone, etc.
• Your college experience — only you can be your best self. Strive to achieve success in all you do or strive for excellence in all you do.

While a student at FLCC, be mindful and respectful of fellow students, faculty, and staff. Remember:

• Others may not be like you — try to always keep an open mind and consider different perspectives.
• Be aware of differences. Differences in age, ethnic background, religion, etc., can lead to conflicting expectations or misunderstandings unless we make an effort to talk with and understand each other.
• The golden rule: Do unto others, as you would have them do unto you — common courtesy.

Challenges are a part of life. While at FLCC, you have the opportunity to challenge yourself:

• Manage your money and pay your bills.
• Own your own actions — you can’t blame anyone else for the way you act.
• Participate in a blood drive, or clean up a local stream. Identify issues that reach across racial, ethnic, and other divisions and forge alliances for tackling them.
• Talk to your roommate about overnight guests, times you go to sleep, study time, telephone, etc.
• Your college experience — only you can be your best self. Strive to achieve success in all you do or strive for excellence in all you do.

While a student at FLCC, be mindful and respectful of fellow students, faculty, and staff. Remember:

• Others may not be like you — try to always keep an open mind and consider different perspectives.
• Be aware of differences. Differences in age, ethnic background, religion, etc., can lead to conflicting expectations or misunderstandings unless we make an effort to talk with and understand each other.
• The golden rule: Do unto others, as you would have them do unto you — common courtesy.

Challenges are a part of life. While at FLCC, you have the opportunity to challenge yourself:

• Manage your money and pay your bills.
• Own your own actions — you can’t blame anyone else for the way you act.
• Participate in a blood drive, or clean up a local stream. Identify issues that reach across racial, ethnic, and other divisions and forge alliances for tackling them.
• Talk to your roommate about overnight guests, times you go to sleep, study time, telephone, etc.
• Your college experience — only you can be your best self. Strive to achieve success in all you do or strive for excellence in all you do.

While a student at FLCC, be mindful and respectful of fellow students, faculty, and staff. Remember:

• Others may not be like you — try to always keep an open mind and consider different perspectives.
• Be aware of differences. Differences in age, ethnic background, religion, etc., can lead to conflicting expectations or misunderstandings unless we make an effort to talk with and understand each other.
• The golden rule: Do unto others, as you would have them do unto you — common courtesy.
Learning doesn’t just happen in the classroom. As an FLCC student, you are a member of the Student Corporation. We encourage you to be an active member by getting involved in student government, clubs, sports, and other activities. These experiences will leave you with a different view of people, as well as a different view of the world around you. As part of the learning process:

• Familiarize yourself with college rules and regulations and follow them.
• Consider attending services at a variety of churches, synagogues, and temples to learn about different faiths.
• Attend a play, listen to music, or go to a dance performance by artists whose race or ethnicity is different from your own.
• Practice good time management skills and stay on top of your academic assignments.

Challenges are a part of life. While at FLCC, you have the opportunity to challenge yourself:

• Manage your money and pay your bills.
• Own your own actions — you can’t blame anyone else for the way you act.
• Participate in a blood drive, or clean up a local stream. Identify issues that reach across racial, ethnic, and other divisions and forge alliances for tackling them.
• Talk to your roommate about overnight guests, times you go to sleep, study time, telephone, etc.
• Your college experience — only you can be your best self. Strive to achieve success in all you do or strive for excellence in all you do.

You make choices everyday — attend or skip class? Eat healthy or junk food? Listen to a racist joke or make your feelings known that you find the joke offensive and remove yourself from the situation? Remember, there is a consequence for every choice you make, and your choices should be based on what you want to do and not what your peers want you to do.

As an FLCC student, some of the choices awaiting you include:

• Pursuing your own interests.
• Selecting your own classes and setting your own schedule — you decide when you go to class, when you hang out, when you eat...
• Choosing from many campus clubs and organization to get involved in.
• Recreating yourself and starting fresh.
• Speaking up when you hear slurs. Letting people know that bias speech is always unacceptable.
• Making new friends.

While a student at FLCC, be mindful and respectful of fellow students, faculty, and staff. Remember:

• Others may not be like you — try to always keep an open mind and consider different perspectives.
• Be aware of differences. Differences in age, ethnic background, religion, etc., can lead to conflicting expectations or misunderstandings unless we make an effort to talk with and understand each other.
• The golden rule: Do unto others, as you would have them do unto you — common courtesy.
It’s true — diversity is life, and it’s all around us. As you begin your college experience, you’ll be faced with a diversity of new experiences, new perspectives, new people, and new opportunities for understanding. It’s bound to be an intriguing, exciting, and challenging change.

How are you going to deal with life on campus? It is up to you!
Of course, as a FLCC student, you are expected to:
• Abide by the rules of the College.
• Conduct yourself with accepted standards of good citizenship, honesty, and decency, and with proper regarding for the rights of others.
• Obey Federal, State, and local laws as would any good citizen.

At FLCC we encourage you to be fair, to learn, to prevail over challenges, and to make responsible choices.

Change is nothing new, but the point is: If you open your mind to something new, you could be in for a rewarding learning adventure.

Keep an Open Mind: It’s Life

---

Did You Know?

81.3% of FLCC students who responded to the 2003 National College Health Assessment believe the College is concerned about the prevention of drug and alcohol use, and 76.3% know the College has alcohol and drug policies.

Most FLCC graduates complete the degree requirements within five semesters or less.

72.18% of current FLCC students have grade point averages of B- or higher.

The Student Code of Conduct Policy can be viewed on the Dean of Student Services and Enrollment Management Web page at http://www.flcc.edu/offices/studentservices/resources.html#codeofconduct. We hope this information will enhance your ability to have a healthy, safe experience, both in and outside the classroom.

---

Accept Diversity: It’s Life

If we were all the same, how boring would that be?